Bayview's Acorn Debuts Mar. 26

Bayview Entertainment announced this past week that director David Axe's film-within-a-film supernatural thriller, Acorn will be making its DVD debut on Mar. 26.

Chloe (Morgan Shaley Renew — as Freawaru in Axe's Bae Wolf, plus Bad Girls, House Monster, etc.) is a filmmaker, perhaps you've seen the Spacebabes trilogy ... she directed those. In any case, she gets some devastating news as our story unfolds ... she has six months to live!

Blue Underground's Deathdream 4K

It is always a surprise, even amazing, that a "little" film from decades ago (five to be exact) bubbles to the top of film collector, film buff and genre fan stack for 4K Ultra HD treatment.

Such is the case with the news this past week from Blue Underground, with sales and distribution support by MVD Entertainment Group. This release news comes in the form of 50th anniversary 4K Ultra HD/Blu-ray Combo Pack release of director Bob Clark's 1974 horror gem, Deathdream (aka: Dead of

Shout! Studios' Ring 4K Collection

Shout! Studios steps up on Mar. 19 and clears three theatrical releases for the 4K Ultra HD marketplace in one fell swoop. This would be The Ring Collection!

In 1998, Japanese filmmaker Hideo Nakata adapted writer Koji Suzuki's 1992 horror novel, Ring (aka: Ringu), for the screen. It was a huge success and inspired the domestic remake by director Gore Verbinski in 2002. The Ring Two (directed by Nakata) followed in 2005 and a third installment, Rings (by filmmaker F. Javier Gutierrez) opened theatrically in Feb. of 2017.

Shout! Studios has bundled all three films into one collection (a 3 4K Ultra HD/3 Blu-ray Combo Pack). These are all new 4K film restorations.

The bonus features for Ring include a collection of deleted footage, the 2005 short film titled Rings, two featurettes — the newly prepared "Ghost Girl Gone Global" and the vintage featurette titled "The Origin of Terror" — and video sessions with the cast and crew.

As to The Ring Two bonus goodies, fans have two viewing options — the theatrical cut and an unrated version of the film. There is a new commentary featuring film critics Emily Higgins and Billy Dunham, deleted scenes and "The Making of The Ring Two" featurette.

Finally, Rings includes (as bonuses) a trio of deleted and/or extended scenes.

Full Moon's Bad CGI Gator On May 07

Remember one thing, there is no such thing as a good computer generated alligator ... you will need that thought placed clearly — and deeply — in your skull if you are to survive the terror of director Danny Draven's latest horror tale.

To that point, Full Moon Features — with sales and distribution support provided by MVD Entertainment Group — has selected May 7 as the release date for both DVD and Blu-ray editions of Draven's Bad CGI Gator.

Make no mistake this has the key elements of a classic haunted house horror story. That means that there must be two key components in place to make this classic genre motif a reality.

First, the victim pool (which, in this case, numbers six college students) and second, the "haunted house," which doesn't have to be a literal "haunted house" — the place can certainly be

Paramount's The Crow 4K On May 7

Paramount Home Entertainment announced this past week that two new film vault selections will be upgraded to the 4K Ultra HD format during the month of May.

The first of these, streeting on May 7, is director Alex Proyas' 1994 film release of The Crow: 30th Anniversary Edition, starring Brandon Lee (who was tragically killed during the production of the film) as comic book creator James O'Barr's risen from the dead hero, Eric Draven.

Bonus features include the newly prepared three-part documentary titled "Shadows & Pain: Designing the Crow" and a new video session with producer Edward R. Pressman titled "Sideshow Collectibles."

Additionally, there are two vintage commentary options — one with director Alex Proyas and the second teaming producer Jeff Most with screenwriter John Shirley — extended scenes, deleted footage and two archived featurettes — "Behind

Sony's Steel Magnolias 4K On Apr. 23

Sony Pictures Home Entertainment has a 4K "fully remastered" 35th anniversary edition of director Herbert Ross' 1989 film adaptation of Robert Harding's 1987 stage play (he also provided the script), Steel Magnolias, set for delivery on Apr. 23.

The film, with its all-star cast (Sally Field, Shirley MacLaine, Dolly Parton, Julia Roberts, Olympia Dukakis and Daryl Hannah) has been out on VHS, DVD and Blu-ray ... this is the first time as a 4K Ultra HD product offering.

Bonus delights include a vintage director's commentary, ten deleted scenes, the vault featurette titled "In Full Bloom: Remembering Steel Magnolias" and the 1990 television pilot of Steel Magnolias.

Chloe is dying of brain cancer, but that doesn't mean she is going to stop making movies!!

One last film, a creative goodbye ... it will be a genre film of her making (a supernatural horror Western)! Perhaps it is the cancer affecting her brain, perhaps just visions, who knows, but Chloe's final film will be Die Standing Up. It's about a badass gunslinger cowgirl named Ginny (played by Caylin Brooke Sams — Sadistic: The Exorcism of Lily Deckert, Purse, Malcolm, Woods Witch) who is on something a vision quest having had dreams about a magical tree with bizarre powers.

Without giving away too much — and there is a reason for that, as David Axe (Shed, House Monster, Bae Wolf) has delivered something quite unique with Acorn — let's just say that the production (the behind-the-scenes stuff) is getting out of control (what could wrong, goes wrong). The movie itself (Die Standing Up) begins to take shape (in parallel fashion) as Ginny discovers the secret of "the tree" she has been seeking (which is pretty gruesome).

Direct to video genre films can always be something of a crapshoot. Some are dreadful (micro budget, bad writing, bad acting ... it's a long list) and then there are some, like director/producer/writer David Axe's Acorn, that arrives as a complete surprise. Creative, unique, different (very different) ... you will not be disappointed on Mar. 26 with the DVD debut of Acorn (a double-feature all in one nice package).

The bonus included with Acorn is documentary filmmaker Sarah Massey's Create or Die: The Making of Acorn.

A movie poster for 'Bulletproof Jesus'. The central figure is a man with long, dark hair, a goatee, and a serious expression. He is shirtless, revealing several bullet wounds on his chest and abdomen. He is holding a large, ornate sword vertically in his right hand. In the background, there are several hands holding handguns, some of which are pointed towards the central figure. The background is a dark, industrial setting with a grid-like structure. The title 'THE DIRECTOR'S CUT BULLET PROOF JESUS' is written in large, bold, white letters with a distressed, hand-painted texture. The text is positioned across the middle of the poster, with 'THE DIRECTOR'S CUT' on the top line, 'BULLET PROOF' on the second line, and 'JESUS' on the third line. The overall color palette is dark, with a strong orange and yellow glow emanating from behind the central figure, creating a dramatic and intense atmosphere.

The second film vault treasure is the May 14 4K Ultra HD debut of director Sergio Leone's Once Upon a Time in the West: 55th Anniversary Edition.

This is the fully restored 165-minute extended cut of the film from the original 35mm "Techiscope" film negatives (restoration overseen by none other than filmmaker Martin Scorsese).

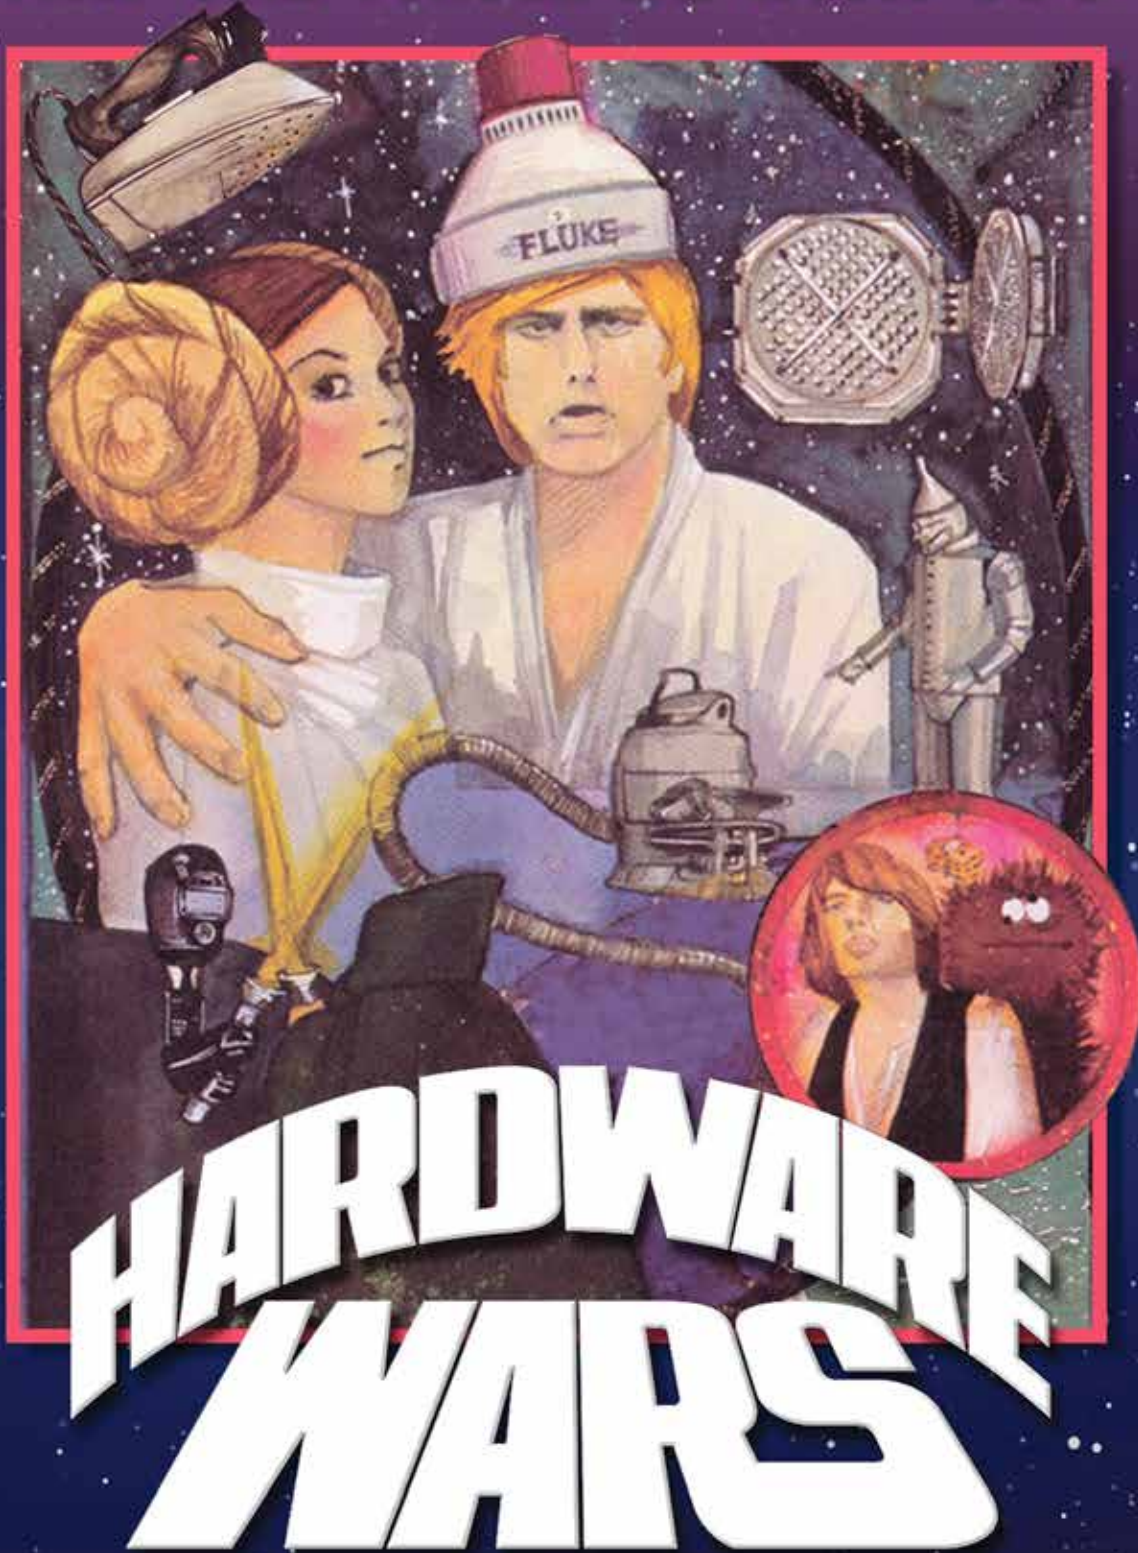

Bonus nuggets include the newly minted commentary option featuring Jay Jennings and Tom Betts of the "Spaghetti Western Podcast" and a new featurette titled "A Look Back with Leonard Martin."

Also included here is the tag-team archived commentary with filmmakers John Carpenter, John Milius and Alex Cox, who are joined by members of the cast and crew, plus film historians Sir Christopher Frayling and Dr. Sheldon Hall.

There are also a trio of vintage featurettes — "The Wages of Sin," "Something to Do with Death" and "Railroad: Revolutionizing the West." Extensive production and "Locations: Then and Now" galleries are also featured.

Dream Continued

Night), which will be available for genre fans to enjoy on May 21.

1974 was a big year for Bob Clark, who had teamed with Alan Ormsby for the cult favorite Children Shouldn't Play with Dead Things — which started playing theatrically in June of 1972, but didn't finish making the rounds (limited prints) until early 1973 (roughly nine months) — but it wasn't Deathdream that made 1974 a big year. Rather, it was Clark's direction and Ormsby writing for Black Christmas that ignited Clark's filmmaking career (Porky's, A Christmas Story, etc. would follow).

Instead, Deathdream followed the same theatrical release pattern as Children Shouldn't Play with Dead Things. Limited 35mm prints were "bicycled" around the country, often times with different distribution partners. The film was reissued with different titles as late as 1976 in efforts to cash in on the success of Black Christmas.

Ultimately, it didn't matter as Deathdream — with VHS, DVD and Blu-ray releases over the years — attracted the genre fan following that it so richly deserves. On May 21 it arrives as the ultimate, a 4K Ultra HD / Blu-ray Combo Pack edition!!

Bonus features include not one, not two, but three separate commentary options. There are two vintage commentaries, one each with Clark (who, along with his son, were murdered by a drunk driver in 2007) and Ormsby, while the third is new and features film historians Troy Howarth and Nathaniel Thompson.

There's an alternate opening, a new featurette titled "The First Andy," plus four archived featurettes — "Deathdreaming," "Tom Savini: The Early Years," "Flying Down to Brooksville," and "Notes for a Homecoming" — video sessions with Anya Liffey (aka: Anya Ormsby) and writer / make-up artist Alan Ormsby and more.

a real haunted mansion, or just simply a creepy old barn ... or a cabin in the woods, a spacecraft drifting in space — any remote cutoff location (think: trapped) will do.

From the filmmaker who gave us the likes of Hell Asylum, Deathbed and The Offerings, Draven knows how to make a horror film. He also knows how to have fun (producer of Evil Bong and Pupper Master films) and that's exactly what Bad CGI Gator is ... fun!!

The script from Zalman Band is also something of an homage to '50's creature features — science run amok and the result being giant spiders, mutant ants and even, dare we say it, alligator people.

Six college students (victim pool) arrive at a lakeside cabin (remote location) with the plan to party and have sexual encounters and to get the festivities started they toss their laptops (likely filled with Microsoft viruses) into the lake. That's all it takes for a mutant gator to become an instant AI/CGI killing machine ... need we say more!!

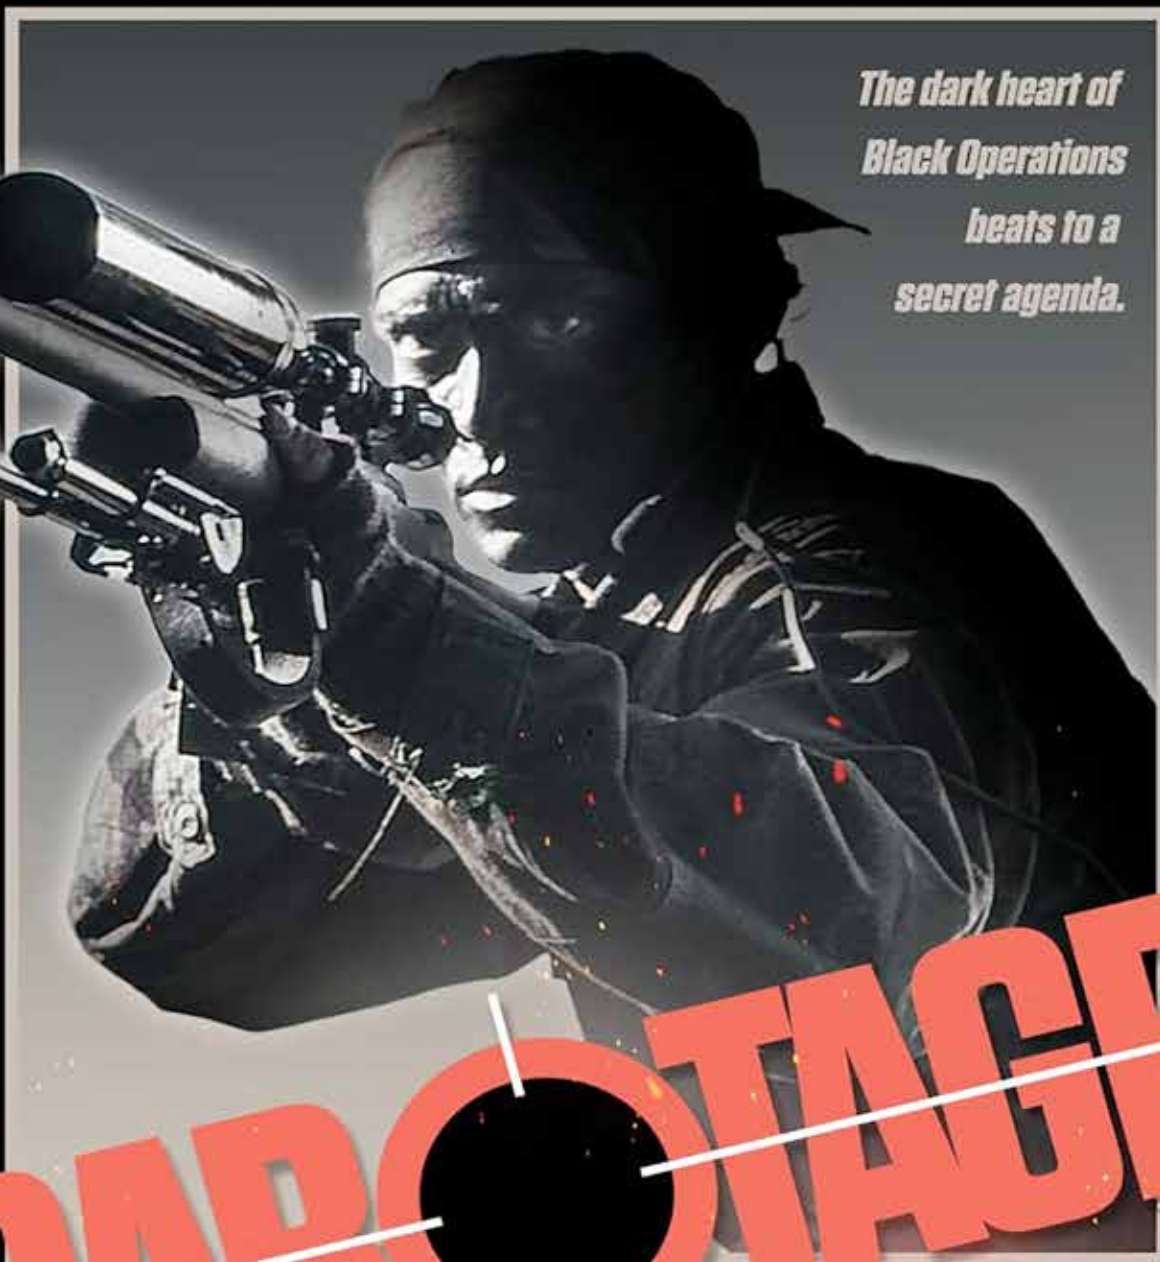

Bonus goodies include commentary by Draven and Band, a blooper reel, Jojo Draven's music score as an isolated track option, the featurette titled "Cast Table Read at Full Moon Manor!" and two podcasts — "Dead Talk Live!" and "Screams from the Basement."

The ARR (Asset Rollover Rate) measures the length of time (in days) between a motion picture's initial theatrical release and its debut in the DVD market. Only those films released beginning in January of 1997 are included in the grid. Box Office performance and release dates have been compiled from Daily Variety and Hollywood Reporter charts published each week.
